Preface

This Basic Course in German has been designed to assist United States Government representatives who require a command of spoken German. The general concept of this text has grown out of the plan of Spoken Language courses prepared under the auspices of the American Council of Learned Societies during World War II. But pattern drills and other exercises have been developed extensively at the Foreign Service Institute to provide a much fuller manipulation of forms and patterns, and a conscious attempt has been made to adapt situations and vocabulary to specific needs of the Foreign Service. And the course is intended to lay a solid foundation for comprehensive language skills, providing systematically for the development of reading proficiency based on oral- aural skills.

This text is the end-product of several years of work and has benefited from the labors of many members and former members of the FSI staff. In its present form it was prepared under the supervision of Or. Samuel A. Brown, who has had overall responsibility for the arrangement of situational material and for the organization and presentation of structural features. Particular credit for the dialogs and much of the drill material goes to Mrs. Use Christoph. Mrs. Christoph has been assisted by Mrs. Maria-Luise Bissonnette, Mr Friedrich Lehmann, Mr. Gerhard Matzel, Mrs. Margarete Plischke and Mrs. Erika Quaid. A most valuable contribution was also made by Mrs. Quaid in preparing the major part of the typescript, assisted by Miss Geneviève Ducastel. The project has been a cooperative venture, however, and all members of the German staff have contributed freely the fruit of their classroom experience and the gifts of their imagination and insight.

Introduction

AIM

It is the aim of the course to provide the student with a useful control of the structure of the spoken language and of a basic vocabulary which meets at least some of the specialized needs of the Foreign Service. After completion of the basic course the Foreign Service Officer should be able to make limited practical use of the language in his official duties and social obligations. He will furthermore have the means, given the proper surroundings and personal motivation, for continued rapid and efficient development of proficiency.

MATERIALS

The materials in this first volume of the text are organized into twelve lessons or units. Each unit contains a set of basic sentences for memorization. These are in the form of a dialog based on one or sometimes two specific situations in which a person might find himself in Germany. Notes to the basic sentences are provided as necessary to clarify occasional difficulties in vocabulary and idiom and to provide additional background on some cultural features unfamiliar to Americans. Notes on pronunciation are included in each of the first eight units. Phonological features which have been found to be particularly difficult for American students are here presented with explanations and pronunciation practice drills. The notes on grammar in each unit single out those structural features illustrated in the basic sentences which are appropriate for systematic consideration at that stage in the course. Substitution drills provide for the manipulation of forms by substituting specific items in fixed sentence frames. They are intended to build habits of association, so that in a given syntactic environment the appropriate grammatical form automatically comes to mind. As the German vocabulary is all familiar, no English equivalents are given in these drills. Variation drills provide for the manipulation of larger syntactic patterns. In each group a model sentence, underscored, serves as a guide. Associated with it are additional sentences incorporating the same syntactic pattern but in which most of the individual word items have been replaced. English equivalents are given to serve as cues for recall of the German variant sentences. Vocabulary drills provide both practice in the use of new vocabulary items and also allow for manipulation of sentence elements whose particular form and arrangement depends upon their association with that vocabulary item. The manipulation of both variation and vocabulary drills depends on the use of English equivalents. Specific translation drills are also provided, however. In most cases they present the material of the basic dialog in the form of a narrative. They thus provide content review of the basic sentences and practice in the transformation from active dialog to descriptive narration. The response drills are question and answer drills on the situations of the basic dialogs. Conversation practice and additional situations in outline bridge the gap to free conversation with small pieces of supplementary dialog for acting out and situations providing for a freer play of the student's imagination. The finder list in each unit notes all new vocabulary which has been presented.

METHOD AND PROCEDURE

This is a course in Spoken German; the forms and patterns of the language are intentionally colloquial. The emphasis in instruction is everywhere on speech, and an indispensable component of the learning process is the voice of a tutor, or instructor, whose native language is German. On no account should the student attempt to use these materials without either a native instructor or recordings of a native instructor's voice. The method of instruction incorporates guided imitation, repetition, memorization, pattern practice, and conversation.

Working under the supervision of a linguist the tutor's role is to serve as a model for speech and to guide the student to accurate imitation by constant repetition and correction. The student's job is to watch and listen to the tutor carefully and to imitate as exactly as he can the sounds which he hears. He must be prepared for constant correction and repetition. Each time however the instructor will give him a model to follow by repeating the item first. The student should never attempt to read from his text but should always wait until he hears the word or utterance as the tutor speaks it for him. As far as possible he should leave his book closed during the presentation of new dialog material and keep his eyes on the tutor, students will be asked to repeat in chorus and individually and will be expected to repeat many, many times, even when their imitation has been good and accurate. Only by constant repetition after an authentic model for speech can habitual fluent and accurate reproduction of the sounds and forms of the foreign language be achieved.

The basic sentences are preceded by "build-ups" giving the component parts of the utterance separately. Each new item which is introduced appears first as a build-up. The tutor will ask the students to repeat the build-ups separately first, then combined into larger units and finally the complete new sentence or utterance. The basic sentences are sub-divided into numbered sections, each to be treated as a unit, repeated in chorus and individually, with and without build-ups, until the students' imitation is satisfactory. Then a new section may be begun. The time required to cover each section in this way will differ widely depending on the size and ability of the class. After acceptable imitation and accurate pronunciation has been achieved in one or more sections they are assigned for memorization outside of class or repeated in class until memorized. The student should be able to give either the German sentence or its English equivalent on request or switch from one to the other and back again. The tutor will drill by repeating each sentence for each student in the class, then by giving each student a different sentence, repeating it for him first, and finally asking the students to recite the sentences in order, the first student the first sentence, the second student the second sentence, etc., without receiving a cue from the instructor. Repetition outside of class, preferably using recorded materials as a guide, should be continued to the point of over-learning. The student should not only be able to give the correct German sentence immediately upon hearing an English equivalent, at random selection, he should also be able to give the correct German sentence with equal ease and speed of response upon hearing its German cue. As a final step the students are expected to act out the basic dialog in entirety from memory, with the tutor or with other students. Only when the basic sentences have been mastered to this extent can they be considered to provide an adequate basis for control of the spoken language. It should be noted at this point that the English text accompanying the basic sentences is not primarily a translation but rather a set of conversational equivalents. Many apparent discrepancies will be found if the student, or the tutor, looks for word-for-word correspondence between the English and German text. It does not exist. Rather, in such and such a situation this is what is said in German and this is what is said in English.

The pronunciation practice drills are to be taken up after the presentation of the basic sentences has been completed and memorization has been started. Items are arranged in groups according to the particular phonological feature concerned. Words in vertical columns present the same phonological feature in different environments. Several columns in a practice group contain related phonological features or related phonological environments in which the same feature recurs. Words are to be repeated first in chorus and then individually by each student after the tutor, at first following the vertical columns and later, for variation and comparison, horizontally across the page. Particular attention should be paid to items in contrast. These are minimum meaningfully distinctive sound patterns, accurate control of which is important for communication and comprehension. Contrasting word pairs are linked by a dash, and after separate practice for accuracy the items should be repeated by pairs to bring out the exact distinctions between them.

The notes on grammar are earmarked for home study. After each unit has been started and the first hour or more has been spent in class on repetition of the basic sentences the student should read through the grammar notes to acquaint himself with the grammatical points presented in that unit. During the whole time a particular unit is being worked on in class the student should continue to study the grammar section. Many questions which he may feel tempted to raise in class will be found to be answered in the notes on grammar. The tutor is specifically requested not to discuss the language with his students, and the students are asked not to ply him with questions. Time in class is to be spent using and manipulating the language and not in talking about it. In each unit one or more grammatical features are presented, and the basic sentences have been designed, as far as is possible consistent with natural expression, to incorporate and illustrate those features. Each point of grammar discussed is illustrated by sentences which are natural utterances in the language. They are taken in nearly every case from the basic sentences of the current or preceding units. Thus the examples are already familiar to the student, and the patterns they contain, which will be drilled and practiced in the sections to follow, are patterns which the student has already begun to assimilate by memorizing the sentences of the dialog.

After the basic sentences of a unit have all been repeated several times and memorization has been well begun, work can be started on the drills. The material is designed to provide a maximum of additional experience in using the forms and patterns of the language learned in the basic sentences. It is not assumed, however, that the learner is automatically able to transfer the experience gained in the basic sentences to error-free manipulation of these forms and patterns. The drills are by no means a test of what the student can do with the elements given him. It is a matter of no great importance whether he can or cannot "figure them out" by himself. The goal is to learn to speak the language accurately and fluently, and this aim can only be achieved by correct repetition of the forms and patterns involved. Therefore all the sentences in each drill group are first to be repeated after the tutor in their correct form. The tutor then cues each student in turn for repetition of one of the drill sentences until all students have given all sentences correctly.

In the substitution drills the model sentence and all its variants are first repeated in chorus after the tutor. He then gives the model sentence again, the class repeats it in chorus, after which each student is cued individually with an item to be substituted and repeats the sentence with the substitution called for. In some cases the cue is the exact form which fits into the sentence. In some cases a cue is given which requires the student to choose the proper form to fit the syntactic environment of the model. Regardless of which type of cue is given or how simple or complex the exercise may appear to be, the student's task is to make the substitution without hesitation and to repeat the sentence accurately at normal conversational speed. Although no English equivalents are given in the substitution drills and the first task is rapid, fluent and accurate manipulation of the material in German, the tutor may ask for spot translations into English here and there, and on the second or third repetition of the drill he may give English equivalents as word or sentence cues in place of the German cues provided.

In most of the variation drills and in all of the vocabulary drills the cues take the form of equivalent English sentences. Basic procedure remains the same as in the substitution drills. All sentences in a given variation or vocabulary group are first repeated after the tutor in their correct form. The tutor then gives the pattern sentence again, and the students repeat it in chorus, after which they are required individually to recall and repeat the correct German sentences for which an English equivalent is given. Students may work with their books open here, covering up the right-hand side of the page on which the German sentences are printed and taking their cues from the English sentences on the left-hand side of the page.

Conversion drills require the conversion of one or more elements in a sentence from one form to another - singular to plural, present tense to past tense, etc. No English is provided for these sentences as a rule. However, as in the substitution drills the tutor may ask for a random spot translation into English, and he may go through the drill a second or third time giving English sentence cues for which the student gives the German equivalent.

Translation and response drills, as noted above, are in most cases directly related to the basic sentences. In translation drills the procedure is similar to that followed in variation and vocabulary drills. Students may work with their books open, covering the German text and reading the English sentences themselves, or if preferred, books may be left closed while the tutor gives the English equivalents. In the response drills it is often appropriate for the tutor to address two or three questions to the same student and then two or three more to the next, so that the drill takes on a more natural character of conversational interchange. Both drills should be repeated in entirety several times, however, or until all students have had a chance to respond to all items.

It will be noted that all drill material is provided with both a cue and a correct response, so that all may be prepared by the student outside of class and repeated and practiced by him as often as necessary to achieve complete accuracy and fluency. In many cases there is more than one possible response to a given cue, and instructors are encouraged to accept all responses which are truly equivalent. If a correct response has been given, however, instructors are not to suggest variant forms which may occur to them, as this only introduces unnecessary complexity of choice to an exercise which is difficult enough as it is.

In the conversation practice brief conversations, usually on the same theme as the basic dialog, are read through by the tutor three or four times while students listen. Then the tutor takes one role while one student takes the other, and they repeat the conversation together. The student's aim here is not primarily to memorize and repeat exactly, but to give as accurate an equivalent as possible in his own words. After acting out the conversation with the tutor the student goes through it again with another student, he in turn with the next student, and so on until all have taken both parts in the dialog.

The situations are brief descriptions, in English in the earlier units, later in German, of occurrences similar to those on which the basic dialogs are based. Two or more students then act out what has been described in their own way and using their own words. They are free to use their imagination and fill in any supplementary details that occur to them. The whole conversation should not be prolonged however more than four or five minutes maximum duration. Then other students may try their hand at the same situation.

The narratives, beginning with the fifth unit, are designed for reading purposes. In the early units they introduce a minimum of additional vocabulary and unfamiliar forms, and they may be used in the class for oral narration, the student re-telling in his own words what he has read. In later units some features of expository prose - matters of both form and style - which differ from normal spoken usage are introduced through the narratives in order to bridge the gap between conversational German and those reading skills of a specialized nature which require particular study and attention.

The ultimate goal of the course, as has been stated above, is to speak accurately, fluently and easily. The text provides for the assimilation of all basic forms and patterns of the language by the guided imitation, memorization, and manipulation of a large number of sentences and by practice in confronting several widely occurring everyday situations. Actual living use of the language in free conversation is a necessary and essential adjunct. The tutor should therefore encourage his students from the start to use the language in every way possible, above and beyond what is provided for in the text. After the first few days of work both students and tutors should avoid the use of English in the classroom for any purpose at all, and they are encouraged to speak German outside the classroom as well. Only by constant use of the skill he is learning can the student hope to master it and retain it as a useful tool of his profession.

Chapter 1. Unit 1

Basic sentences: Wir sind in Deutschland

	I
Good morning	guten Morgen
Good morning.	Guten Morgen.
Mr.	Herr
Becker	Becker
Mr. Becker	Herr Becker
Good morning, Mr. Becker.	Guten Morgen, Herr Becker.
day	Tag
Hello (Good day).	Guten Tag.
Mrs.	Frau
Kunze	Kunze
Mrs. Kunze	Frau Kunze
Hello , Mrs. Kunze.	Guten Tag, Frau Kunze.
evening	Abend
Good evening.	Guten Abend.
Miss	Fräulein
Schneider	Schneider
Miss Schneider	Fräulein Schneider
Good evening, Miss Schneider.	Guten Abend, Fräulein Schneider.

	II
Hello, Miss Schneider.	Guten Tag, Fräulein Schneider.
Hello, Mr. Becker.	Guten Tag, Herr Becker.
how	wie
goes	geht
it	es
to you, with you	Ihnen
How are you? (how goes it with you?)	Wie geht es Ihnen?
thanks	danke
very	sehr
good, well	gut
Fine, Thanks.	Danke, sehr gut.
and	und
And how are you, Mr. Becker?	Und wie geht es Ihnen, Herr Becker?
also, too	auch
Thank you, I'm fine too.	Danke, auch gut.

	III
understand	verstehen

you	Sie
Do you understand Mrs. Kunze?	Verstehen Sie Frau Kunze?
no	nein
I	ich
I understand	ich verstehe
not	nicht
No, I don't understand Mrs. Kunze.	Nein, ich verstehe Frau Kunze nicht.
me	mich
Do you understand me?	Verstehen Sie mich?
yes	ja
Yes, I understand you well.	Ja, ich verstehe Sie gut.

IV

where	wo
is	ist
the airport	der Flughafen
Where's the airport?	Wo ist der Flughafen?
there	dort
over there	drüben
The airport is over there.	Der Flughafen ist dort drüben.
please	bitte
I beg your pardon. What did you say?	Wie bitte? speak	sprechen
slow, slowly	langsam
Please speak slowly.	Sprechen Sie bitte langsam.
The airport is over there.	Der Flughafen ist dort drüben.
Do you understand?	Verstehen Sie?
thank you	danke schön
Yes, I understand. Thank you.	Ja, ich verstehe. Danke schön.
you're welcome	bitte schön
You're welcome.	Bitte schön.

V

that	das
the railroad station	der Bahnhof
Is that the railroad station?	Ist das der Bahnhof?
No, that's not the station.	Nein, das ist nicht der Bahnhof.
he, it	er
to the left	links
It's there to the left.	Er ist dort links.
the restaurant	das Restaurant
Is the restaurant there too?	Ist das Restaurant auch dort?
it	es
Yes, it's there too.	Ja, es ist auch dort.

Yes, sausage and sauerkraut please.	Ja, Bratwurst mit Sauerkraut, bitte.
some, a little	etwas
bread	Brot
And a little bread.	Und etwas Brot.

X

the wine	der Wein
How's the wine, and how's the beer?	Wie ist der Wein und wie ist das Bier?
are	sind
The wine and the beer are good.	Der Wein und das Bier sind gut.
but	aber
the coffee	der Kaffee
But the coffee's not good.	Aber der Kaffee ist nicht gut.
the tea	der Tee
not ... either	auch nicht
And the tea isn't good either.	Und der Tee ist auch nicht gut.
the milk	die Milch
Is the milk good?	Ist die Milch gut?

Yes, the milk is very good.	Ja, die Milch ist sehr gut.
the water	das Wasser
How's the water here?	Wie ist hier das Wasser?
The water is good.	Das Wasser ist gut.

XI
zero - one - two - three - four	null - eins - zwei - drei - vier
five - six - seven - eight	fünf - sechs - sieben - acht
nine - ten - eleven - twelve	neun - zehn - elf - zwölf
How much is three and five?	Wie viel ist drei und fünf?
Three and five is eight.	Drei und fünf ist acht.
How much is seven and four?	Wie viel ist sieben und vier?
Seven and four is eleven.	Sieben und vier ist elf.
How much is two and ten?	Wie viel ist zwei und zehn?
Two and ten is twelve.	Zwei und zehn ist zwölf.
again	nochmal
Say it again/ please.	Nochmal, bitte.
Two and ten is twelve.	Zwei und zehn ist zwölf.

XII
one, you	man
says	sagt
does one say	sagt man
in German	auf deutsch
How do you say 'good bye' in German?	Wie sagt man 'good bye' auf deutsch?
good bye	Auf Wiedersehen
You say 'Auf Wiedersehen'.	Man sagt 'Auf Wiedersehen'.

Notes on pronunciation

The spelling of a language only symbolizes to the native speaker the sounds which he already knows. You will learn these sounds directly from your instructor; the spelling will serve as an aid to listening. No spelling system adequately represents the sounds of the spoken language, and no attempt will be made at this point to outline exactly what sounds are represented by what symbols of the German spelling system. We will however present for particular drill and attention in each unit certain sounds which have shown themselves to be difficult for speakers of American English. In the meantime we ask you to remember two cardinal points:

1. The German of your text is printed in the standard German written style.
2. The letter-symbols used, although in most cases the same symbols we use in written English, in most cases do not represent exactly the same sounds we use in English. Therefore, DO NOT EXPECT GERMAN WRITTEN SYMBOLS TO REPRESENT SOUND VALUES YOU KNOW IN ENGLISH.

Pronunciation Practices. To be drilled in class.

- A. Short Vowels      The German short vowels i,e,a and u are not dissimilar from English sounds. The o, however, is probably different from any sound that you have in English. Do not try to replace it by a sound from English, but rather reproduce the pronunciation of your instructor. The German front rounded vowels ö and ü do not occur in English. To produce the ö, put your tongue in the position for the German e and round your lips; for ü, put your tongue in the position for the German i and round your lips. You will then produce a sound similar to the German sound. Experiment until your instructor is satisfied with your pronunciation. Do not worry about the meaning of the words in these practices. Concentrate instead on the sounds.

Practice 1(a)

Short i	Short e	Short a	Short o	Short u
bitte	denn	das	kostet	muss
ist	essen	Mann	Sonne	Mutter
in	etwas	an	Doktor	und
Short ö	Short ü			- e (unstressed)
können	Mütter		bitte	genug
möchte	fünf		danke	gesehen
oft	Hütte		Sonne	bekommen

Practice 1(b)

mit - Mütter

kennen - können

missen - müssen

stecke - Stöcke

B. Long Vowels

There are no sounds in English exactly like the German long vowels. If you will pronounce English gate and then ask your instructor to pronounce German geht, you will notice that the English vowel sound seems to change during its pronunciation, but the German sound seems tense and stable throughout its duration. Your tongue actually moves during the production of the English vowel sound, but during the production of the German sound the tongue remains in the same position. The long ö and ü are formed approximately like short ö and ü. Pronounce German long e and round your lips to form ö, and pronounce German long i and round your lips to form ü.

Practice 2(a)

Long	i	e	a	o	u	ö	ü
wie	geht	Tag	Sohn	gut	König	für
ihnen	Tee	Abend	oder	du	schön	Tür
viel	den	Bahn	wo	Flug	öde	über

Practice 2(b)

vier - für

lesen - lösen

Tier - Tür

Sehne - Söhne

C.

Distinguishing Long and Short Vowels

It is NOT ALWAYS POSSIBLE to distinguish long and short vowels in written German, as the German spelling system does not consistently mark them as such. Your best guide to the pronunciation of any given word is the way your native instructor pronounces it. However, a few hints can be given which will help you to recognize them most of the time. If you look back at the practice lists above you will see that the short vowels in most cases are followed by two or more consonants and they are always written with a single letter symbol. Then note that the long vowels are not always written with a single letter symbol and usually are followed by only one consonant. The following combinations of letters always designate long vowels: ie, ih - eh, ee - ah, aa - oh, oo - uh - öh - üh

D. Diphthongs

These combinations of two vowel sounds in German are very similar, though not identical to certain vowel combinations in English.

Practice 3

ei	au	eu (äu)
nein	auch	deutsch
eins	Tau	neun
Wein	Laut	läute

Notes on grammar

(For home study)

A. The German Noun-Classification ('Gender') System.

I. The three classes of nouns.

Der Wein ist nicht gut. The wine isn't good.

Das Bier ist gut. The beer is good.

Die Milch ist auch gut. The milk is good too.

1. German has three words for 'the': der, das and die; and German nouns can be divided into three classes according to which of the three words for 'the*' they go with. Wein goes only with der, never with das, never with die. Bier goes only with das, and so on.
2. We will refer to these three classes of nouns, for obvious reasons, as der-nouns, das-nouns and die-nouns. (1 Wein is der-noun- 'Hotel' is a das-noun.)
3. The traditional statement about this phenomenon is: 'German nouns have three genders—masculine, feminine, and neuter.' we will not use this terminology because it tends to mislead English-speaking students by suggesting that the German noun classification has something to do with sex differentiation. It doesn't. See paragraph III.
4. Insofar as the basic stock of German nouns is concerned (nouns like house, grass, sky, wine, beer, milk), there is absolutely no sense or rationale to the classification system; there is no way at all of anticipating which class any given noun belongs to. You must simply learn the word for 'the' as a part of the noun: the German word for 'wine' is der Wein. And you must practice saying der Wein often enough so that das Wein or die Wein sounds as wrong to you as 'The father of his country — Henry Washington.'
5. Now, Henry Washington is a perfectly good name; but it's wrong, and every^ American knows it's wrong. By the same token, das Wein is a perfectly good form; but it's wrong, and every German knows it's wrong.
6. With derivative nouns (that is, nouns made from other words, like our happiness, brother-hood) your problem is easier. The classification of German derivative nouns is fairly orderly and consistent. Nouns ending in -ung, for example, are always die-nouns: die Verzei- hung 'the forgiveness, the pardon. And nouns ending with the diminutive suffixes -lein and -chen are always das-nouns: das Fräulein 'the miss, waitress,' das Mädchen 'the little girl.' We will deal with the formation of the various kinds of derivative nouns as we go along through the units.

7. But if the classification of derivative nouns is orderly and consistent, the classification of the basic stock of German nouns remains virtually chaotic. There really is no system at all for guessing Which class a noun belongs to; it's not something you can reason out or get the knack of. It is not the same as our he-she-it system, as we'll see in a minute. There is absolutely nothing in English like it. Your only solution is to use the nouns until you know them as well as you know 'George Washington.'

II. Pronouns Corresponding to the Three Classes of Nouns.

Wo ist der Bahnof?	Er ist dort.	Where is the station?	It's there.
Wo ist das Hotel?	Es ist dort.	Where is the hotel?	It's there.
Wo ist die Botshaft?	Sie ist dort.	Where is the ambassy?	It's there.

As these examples show, there is a special pronoun for each of the three classes of nouns. Notice the correspondence in the final sounds of the pairs der-er, das-es, and die-sie. This is no coincidence.

III. Contrast between German and English Pronoun Usage.

Wo ist der Bahnhof?	Er ist dort.	Where is the station?	It's there.
Wo ist der Mann?	Er ist dort.	Where's the man?	He's here.
Wo ist das Hotel?	Es ist dort.	Where is the hotel?	It's there.
Wo ist das Kind?	Es ist dort.	Where is the child?	He's here. She's here
Wo ist die Botschaft?	Sie ist dort.	Where is the em- bassy?	It's there.
Wo ist die Frau?	Sie ist dort.	Where's the woman?	She's here.

These examples show that the German pronouns er, sie, and es do not match up with the English pronouns 'he', 'she', and 'it'. The English he-she-it system has an entirely different foundation from the German noun-classification ('gender') system. In the English system, the choice of pronoun depends upon the sex (male, female, or sexless) of some non-linguistic entity—a man ('he'), a woman ('she'), or a table ('it'). In the German system, on the other hand, the choice of pronoun depends upon the linguistic classification of the noun you are replacing, except in reference to human beings.

IV. Pronouns Referring to People.

Wo ist das Fraülein?	Where is the waitress?
Sie ist dort.	She's there.

Since all German nouns referring to men are der-nouns and virtually all German nouns referring to women are die-nouns. er and sie correspond to 'he' and 'she' — when they refer to human beings. Consequently, one says sie when referring to das Fräulein. Who is, after all, die lunge Dame 'the young lady', die Tochter 'the daughter', die Schwester 'the sister', and so on, as well as das Fräulein.

V. No classification in the Plural.

Wo sind die Bahnhöfe?	Sie sind hier.	Where are the stations?	They're here.
Wo sind die Hotels?	Sie sind hier.	Where are the hotels?	They're here.
Wo sind die Frauen?	Sie sind hier.	Where are the women?	They're here.

As these examples show, the three-fold classification we've been discussing applies only to nouns in the singular. In the plural, there is only one word for 'the', and only one pronoun.

B. The pointing-Word das.

Das ist der Bahnhof, nicht wahr?	This is the station, isn't it?
Ja, das ist er.	Yes, that's it.
Ist das die Milch?	Is that the milk?
Das ist Wasser.	This is water.
Sind das die Streichhölzer?	Are these the matches?
Das sind die Zigarren.	Those are the ciaars.

I. The pointing-word das (often accompanied by a pointing gesture) is used to call any object or group of objects to the hearer's attention, without any reference to noun classification or to the number of objects.

II. The pointing-word das is an entirely different entity from the das of das Hotel. The English equivalents of the pointing-word das are 'this', 'that', 'these', and 'those'.

Substitution drill.

This section is made up of a number of model sentences. One or two words in each sentence are underscored. Below each group will be found a series of isolated words. The drill consists in substituting these words, one by one, for the one that is underscored in the model sentence, and making necessary changes in the rest of the sentence.

The instructor says the model sentence out loud, and the class repeats after him. The first student makes the first substitution, the next student the second, and so on. Repeat until all students have had a chance to make each substitution at least once, then proceed to the next model sentence.

This drill may be done with books closed. The instructor then gives the students the item to be substituted. Keep things moving along. Maintain a lively pace. If one student gets stuck, the next one takes over after three or four seconds.

Variation drill

This section is made up of several groups of sentences. Each group is headed by a model sentence which is underscored. The instructor reads the model sentence out loud, and the class repeats after him. The first student then gives the German version of the first English variation sentence under the model sentence. The next student takes the second sentence, and so on.

While doing this drill, STUDENTS MUST COVER THE RIGHT-HAND SIDE OF THE PAGE

English versions must be read silently, and the German version must be given without stopping, with the proper pronunciation, including intonation. If you have to 'translate*' word by word you need more practice with the basic sentences.

The instructor must insist on COMPLETE SENTENCES.

1.	Ich verstehe Sie.	I understand you.
a.	I understand you well.	Ich verstehe Sie gut.
b.	I understand you very well.	Ich verstehe Sie sehr gut.
c.	I understand you well, too.	Ich verstehe Sie auch gut.

Translation drill

Students cover right-hand side of page and take turns giving the German version of the sentences in English column. The instructor must insist that each student give his version without hesitation. Go over the drill several times, until each student has had an opportunity to give all sentences.

Unless students can do this drill confidently, they need more preparation.

1. Is that the embassy?	Ist das die Botschaft?
2. No, that's not the embassy, that is the hotel.	Nein, das ist nicht die Botschaft, das ist das Hotel.
3. The embassy is over there, to the left.	Die Botschaft ist da drüben, links.

24. Would you like to eat?	Möchten Sie gern essen?
25. Yes, I would.	Ja, gerne.

Response drill

Students are to prepare this drill at home. The questions are generally directed toward the situation or situations presented in the Basic Sentences. The answers suggested are obviously not the only possible answers to these questions, and the student should feel free to vary them or to replace them by his own formulations ad libitum, within the limitations of structure and vocabulary covered.

1.	Wo ist Herr Becker?	Er ist dort drüben.
2.	Ist das Frau Kunze?	Nein, das ist nicht Frau Kunze.
3.	Wo sind Herr und Frau Schneider?	Herr und Frau Schneider sind hier.
4.	Wie geht es Ihnen?	Danke gut. Und Ihnen?

38.	Ist sechs und fünf zwölf?	Nein, sechs und fünf ist nicht zwölf. Sechs und fünf ist elf.

Conversation practice

Students keep books closed. Preparation before class is recommended.

The instructor reads one conversational bout three or four times, out loud, at normal speed. Class listens and students memorize.

The instructor and one student now 'play back' the conversation. Repeat each bout until each student has taken each part once. Then proceed to the next bout.

Keep the ball rolling. If students are hesitant, abandon this drill for the day. Students will prepare themselves at home for the next repetition of the drill.

The instructor will POSTPONE CORRECTING OF MISTAKES during a bout until after it is concluded so as not to discourage the student. After the bout, the instructor simply says the mistaken or mispronounced item to the student and has him repeat it after him.

Situations

You are now ready for free conversation. Act out the following situations, which are slight variations on the basic sentences, as freely and fluently as you can, making use of all the patterns you have learned.

Finding the Way

An American has just arrived in Germany and doesn't understand too well yet. He asks a German on the street where the hotel is. The German tells him it's over there to the left. The American doesn't understand him and asks him to say it again please.

He still does not understand and asks the German to speak slowly. The latter repeats much slower and asks the American if he understands. The American says he does, thanks him and says good-bye.

Go through this conversation again with the American asking for the embassy, cafe, airport, etc., and the German giving different directions: straight ahead, over there, to the right, etc.

Question Practice

Each student asks the next student a question in addition (numbers one to twelve). He answers it and asks the next student, etc.

At the Cigar Store

Mr. Becker is the proprietor of a cigar store. Mr. Schneider stops in for some cigarettes. They exchange greetings, and Mr. Becker asks what Mr. Schneider would like. After getting him the cigarettes he asks if Mr. Schneider would like some cigars, too. He says no thanks, but he would like some matches. Figuring up his own bill he says that costs one mark ten, doesn't it, but Mr. Becker says no, it costs two marks. Mr. Schneider gives him the money, and they say good-bye to each other.

At the Restaurant

Miss Schneider is the waitress in a restaurant. Mr. Kunze greets her as he comes in and asks how she is. She returns his greeting and asks if he is well, too. He says yes, thanks, and asks if they have sausage and sauerkraut, and how the beer and the wine are, etc. Finally he says he'd like to have sausage and sauerkraut, beer and some bread. After the meal he pays her - it costs three marks - and says good-bye.
